The Centennial Fourth.

HOW IT WAS CELEBRATED AT NEWPORT.

The pent up feelings of young America, which have been held in check for the last hundred years, came to a crisis Tuesday, when the first full fledged Centennial Fourth of July was launched upon us.

At sunrise the bells of all the churches commenced their part of the celebration, which they continued for half an hour, and repeated at noon and sunset. Salutes were fired by the Artillery Company, the Torpedo station and Fort Adams.

MILITARY PARADE.

The grand military and civil procession formed at 9 o'clock A. M., and the march commenced at 10, which finally ended at the Opera House just before twelve. The line was under the charge of General Burdick as Chief Marshal, with five aids. The procession formed on the parade in the following order :

Platoon of Police.
Chief Marshal and Aids.
Newport Brass Band, Prof. McQuown, leader, 28 pieces.
Foot company from Fort Adams, 50 men, Lieut. Sherman, commanding.

Battery 1st, U. S. Artillery, Capt. Wheeler, commanding.
Fall River Brass Band, Prof. Waters.
Newport Artillery Company, 90 men, Col. J. H. Powel, commanding.
Newport Light Infantry, 40 men, Capt. J. M. Jacques.
St. Mary's Benevolent Society, 75 members, John E. Leddy, Marshal.
Newport Catholic Literary Society, 30 members, Arthur P. Jennings, Marshal.
Father Matthew's Total Abstinence Society, 75 members, Michael Butler, President.
Ten carriages containing the committee of arrangements, Mayor, orator of the day, reader and officiating clergymen.
City Government.
Officers of the United States service, and invited guests.
Large car drawn by 8 horses containing thirty-eight young ladies from the Grammar Schools, dressed in white and representing the different States of the Union.

The procession was very large and made as fine appearance as any ever seen in the streets of Newport. Capt. Jackson's Light Battery and the soldiers of the 1st U. S. Artillery added materially to the appearance of the line. The companies and organizations all looked well and did valiant service for the cause on a scorching hot day.

LITERARY EXERCISES.

The Opera House was well filled by those anxious to listen to the literary part of the celebration. The exercises there were: music by the bands, prayer by Rev. Dr. Mercer, reading the Declaration by His Honor Mayor Bedlow, and the historical oration by the Hon. W. P. Sheffield. The oration was a carefully prepared and interesting history in brief of Newport during her more than two centuries of important career, only a few of the more salient points of which could be given in the brief time allowed the speaker. The reading of the Declaration of Independence was done in a manner which led many to declare that they had never heard that important document read before. His Honor is a good reader, and he managed the elocutionary part of the Declaration in the same manner as he manages the affairs of the city—thoroughly.

FIRE DEPARTMENT PARADE.

At 2 o'clock the alarm was struck from box 3 on the City Hall, and the Fire Department promptly assembled on the Parade. The line moved at a little before three, some delay being caused to witness the attempted balloon ascension.

The companies were all in uniform and turned out in full numbers. This was the first parade of the paid fire department, and the excellent appearance of both the men and the apparatus speaks well for the discipline of the department. The engines and hose trucks were all elegantly decorated with flowers and evergreens, no pains being spared to make this parade an attractive feature of the day's programme. The procession moved in the following order:

Platoon of Police.
Chief Engineer Cozzens and Assistants Burroughs, Stevens, Finch and Burdick, mounted.
Torrent Steam Fire Engine Co. No. 1, Capt. Babcock, 12 men.
Hook and Ladder Co., Capt. Cozzens, 15 men.
Rough & Ready Steam Fire Engine Co. No. 2, Capt. Pike, 24 men.
Aquidneck Engine Co. No. 3, Capt. Hazard, 19 men.
Hope Engine Co. No. 4, Capt. Clegg, 11 men.
Protection Steam Fire Engine Co. No. 5, Capt. Tilley, 15 men.
Rhode Island Engine Co. No. 6, Capt. Matthews, 24 men.
Hercules Steam Fire Engine Co. No. 7, Capt. Lake, 22 men.
Redwood Engine Co. No. 8, Capt. Williams, 10 men.

Then followed the apparatus belonging to the department. The procession moved over nearly the same route as the morning's procession.

One of the principal features of the day was to have been the balloon ascension that was to take place from the Parade at half-past two o'clock. The balloon was filled with gas and Prof. Allen, after bidding his family good bye, seated himself in the car and started on his ærial trip. The first upward movement made by the balloon was into a large tree opposite. Clearing that the balloon swayed to the eastward and became entangled in the wires of the Western Union Telegraph Co., which were pretty thoroughly broken down; another tree was in the way. In these encounters the balloon became badly torn and the æronaut soon found himself on the ground. For a few moments there was great excitement, horses were frightened, one or two people were knocked down and one lady fainted away, but fortunately no one was seriously injured.

THE REGATTA.

At exactly 12 o'clock, noon, the signal for starting was given and the boats started with a good breeze from the south and south-westward. The course was from the boat off Long Wharf, around the can buoy opposite the Lime Rock, down past Beaver Tail light, around the light-ship, and returning over the same course. There were three entries in the first class which was for boats from 25 to 30 feet in length; four in the second class which was for boats from 20 to 25 feet; and three entries in the third class which was for all boats under 20 feet. The boats behaved well, and owing to the good breeze the race was sailed in very fair time. The result of the race, as officially reported, was follows:

1st Class—Annie M., Capt. Shay, 1st prize.
E. O. Matthews, Capt. Sheehan, 2d prize.

In the second class, the Lizzie, Capt. Briggs, won the first prize, and the Planet, Capt. Harrington, the second. The prizes for the third class boats were awarded to the Lily, Capt. Watson, and the Daisy, Capt. Alger; the prizes were $18 and $12.

About 5 P. M., the crowd surged toward the Cove basin where the chief attraction of the day was witnessed in a variety of old fashioned sports.

THE RUNNING RACE

was the first and was quickly disposed of. Six young lads entered and the race was warmly contested between C. H. Briggs, who received the first prize of $5, and the second by Richard Mahoney, and the third by John Roach

The entries for the tub race were numerous, there being seven contestants, but the race in reality lay between George Shields, who won the first prize of $5, and James Brady, jr., who took the second prize, $2. The whole affair was very amusing, especially the frantic efforts often required to keep the tub right side up. The young lad, Shields, had evidently been in a tub before; and the way in which he managed his clumsy craft reflects much credit upon his judgment.

THE SWIMMING RACE

was the next in order, and at the word go the four contestants started vigorously. Two lads, Solomon Caswell and Charles Lapham, taking the lead on the first round, but dropping out, left the contest between Florence Mahoney and William S. Bailey. Both are fine swimmers, and did their best, but the race was easily won by Mahoney, although Bailey gained a little on him at the last stretch.

THE SACK RACE,

for which there were eight entries, the first prize being won by John McCarthy, the second by Michael Riley.

FIREWORKS.

The evening's part of the celebration was nearly a failure, owing to the heavy fog that made its appearance just before night. The powder in most of the more extensive pieces was dampened, and consequently nothing would go off except the rockets and the like. There was a large crowd present to witness the attempted display. Many private citizens laid in a liberal supply of fireworks for the Centennial occasion, and rockets and red lights seemed to abound in all parts of the city. Many residences were illuminated, and all together, for a foggy night, the effect was fine.

About eleven o'clock P.M., young America's capacity for noise and celebration seemed to gradually lessen, and he soon crawled off to bed, leaving the city once more to its accustomed quiet and repose. Thus ended the Centennial Fourth in Newport.

The celebration may be called a success. The committee to arrange a programme for such an occasion had no easy task to perform, and it is a credit to their exertions that everything passed off well. There were no serious accidents, no fires, and very little rowdyism. Chief Engineer Cozzens and City Marshal Read, with their respective forces, were constantly on hand to look out for the welfare of the city. The fire department was on duty from six o'clock Monday night to six o'clock Wednesday morning, and every preparation was made for the speedy extinguishing of a fire, had there been one.

THE FOURTH AT THE TORPEDO STATION.

The Centennial Fourth was celebrated at the Torpedo Station with considerable eclat. Salutes were fired, flags and bunting displayed and the officers' quarters handsomely decorated. In the evening the principal part of the celebration took place which consisted of the best fire works exhibition given in or about the city. At 8 P. M., some thirty-eight torpedoes were planted in the inner harbor, some sixty feet from the shore, three of which were hundred pounders and the rest twelve pounders. At nine o'clock these were fired, at intervals of some six seconds, making a magnificent sight. The Torpedo salute was under the management of Lieut. Converse. Three electric lights were turned on by Prof. Farmer, which brilliantly lighted up the island, harbor and surrounding scenery.

Panoramic views were displayed under the direction of Prof. Hill, showing Washington, Lincoln and the American Eagle. Blue lights were displayed from the Intrepid and the Nina, and skyrockets were fired at short intervals during the evening. There was a large number of invited guests present among whom was Capt. Jones of the Royal Navy. The celebration was a complete success.—Mercury.
